

A.P. Moller - Maersk (Maersk) opened two new warehouses in India that are strategically situated close to the National Capital Region (NCR) in the northern section of the country, strengthening its position as a global integrated logistics company.

The facilities were officially opened from New Delhi by Soren Skou, CEO of A.P. Moller-Maersk, Navneet Kapoor, Executive Vice President of A.P. Moller-Maersk, Richard Morgan, Managing Director of Maersk West & Central Asia, and Vikash Agarwal, Managing Director of Maersk South Asia.

Soren Skou, CEO, A.P. Moller - Maersk says, "Logistics is moving up the strategic agenda of organisations. Our conversations with customers are turning into holistic, partnership-based discussions through which they seek resilient solutions to their supply chains that are insulated from unforeseen disruptions. An important element of end-to-end logistics is warehousing and distribution. Expanding the warehousing footprint is fundamental to our strategic growth, especially in an important market such as India and helps us offer our customers truly integrated logistics solutions".
