

About two months after the product's original availability in China, Apple Inc. intends to begin producing the iPhone 14 in India.

According to the report, which cited people with knowledge of the situation, the corporation has been collaborating with suppliers to increase production in India and reduce the time it takes to produce new iPhones from the usual six to nine months for prior launches.

According to earlier reports, Apple may consider exporting the forthcoming iPhone 14 from India as the US smartphone manufacturer seeks to reduce geopolitical threats to supply efficiency by establishing production facilities outside of China.
