

The German company Behr-Hella Thermocontrol GmbH (BHTC) has opened a brand-new, renovated, and fully integrated production plant in Pune to satisfy the needs of its regional and international clients.

The facility was integrated on June 22 by BHTC, a global leader in automotive displays, human machine interface (HMI) solutions, temperature control, and thermal management. In addition to developing a dynamic, collaborative, and transparent work environment at its new office to attract the greatest people available in the nation, the firm expanded its production capabilities and capacity to create premium quality, cutting-edge products out of India.

Additionally, BHTC stated that it has already committed around 10 million euros to investments in India and intends to make an additional 8 to 10 million till 2023.
