

The huge Bundelkhand Expressway project of the Yogi administration is nearly finished, and Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to dedicate it in the second week of July.

The contractors have been instructed to finish the remaining work on the highway within 10 days as 96 percent of the project is already finished.

The country's first state with five expressways is Uttar Pradesh. Following the Yamuna Expressway, Agra-Lucknow, and Purvanchal Expressways, the Bundelkhand Expressway is now complete, and work on the Ganga Expressway is progressing quickly.

Awanish Kumar Awasthi, the Additional Chief Secretary for the Home Department and CEO of the Uttar Pradesh Expressway Industrial Development Authority (UPEIDA), saw the development of the expressway's construction work close to the hamlet of Kudrail in Etawah district.
