

By securing aRs 97-crore contract, Essar Constructions India Ltd \(ECIL\), the Indian division of Essar Projects, announced that Jindal Stainless had become a new client.

According to a post on social media from the company, the order is for mechanical work for a blast furnace in Jajpur.

Speaking on the occasion, SejalJani, Head – Business Development, Tendering & Estimation, ECIL said, “As we take gradual steps towards building a robust order book, widening the portfolio of clients has also been of importance.”

While the firm reaches out to showcase its capabilities and connect with new clients, it fully acknowledge that efficient execution was crucial to uphold its image in the market.

“ECIL has been strengthening its foothold in the minerals and metals domain. Time and cost effective deliveries of orders won during the past one year has not only led to repeat orders, but also enhanced overall market confidence, leading to opening of new doors,” he said.
