

JCB, a British construction equipment company, is spending Rs 1,000 crore in Vadodara, Gujarat, to establish a specialised exports facility for crucial parts and components for its global operations.

Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel and UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson, in the presence of JCB Chairman Lord Bamford, opened the sixth site.

With the opening of the facility in Gujarat, JCB will be able to concentrate all of its exports under one roof and use the private port in Hazira, Surat to send welded component and fabrication parts all over the world to JCB's worldwide supply chain.
