

An important vehicle manufacturer has given “substantial” orders to the building division of engineering giant Larsen & Toubro (L&T) to build a cutting-edge manufacturing plant in Haryana. Orders valued between Rs 1,000 crore and Rs 2,500 crore are considered significant by the company.

According to the statement, the scope includes the design and execution of civil, structural, and architectural works, as well as exterior development works.

This victory follows a landmark order from Reliance Life Sciences, a major biotech company, to build their cutting-edge production facility for life sciences goods in Maharashtra.

The Public Works Department (PWD), Assam has also given the business an order to build a police reserve campus in Guwahati.
