

Madurai to get a information technology park at a cost of Rs 600 crore: CM | 1

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin said an information technology park will be built in Madurai at an estimated cost of RS 600 crore in order to make the city a hub for technology. Speaking at the Madurai MSME regional event, Stalin announced that the state-run TIDEL would establish the park in collaboration with the Madurai Corporation.

“This IT park will be operated and administered by TIDEL. The park will be set up in two phases in Madurai’s downtown Maatuthavani.”

In the first phase, the IT park would come up on a 5-acre campus. In the second phase, park would be expanded to 5 more acres.
