

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will open the 340-kilometer Purvanchal Expressway in Uttar Pradesh on 16 November. The expressway will link Uttar Pradesh's eastern and western regions. In July 2018, approximately a year after the Yogi Adityanath government took power, he placed the foundation stone.

According to reports, Prime Minister Narendra Modi will arrive in Sultanpur, Uttar Pradesh, at 11 a.m. on November 16 to launch the state's longest expressway, which includes a 3-kilometer-long airstrip.

The prime minister will also hold a large public meeting. A fighter plane will land on the expressway airstrip during the inaugural ceremony.
