

By the end of 2023, the Mumbai Trans Harbour Link \(MTHL\), which would be the nation's longest sea bridge, may be finished.

By linking Mumbai and Navi Mumbai, the MTHL cuts the current two-hour travel time between South Mumbai and Navi Mumbai in half to just 20 minutes.

Nhava Sheva Port, the Mumbai-Goa Highway, the Mumbai-Pune Expressway, and the Navi Mumbai International Airport will all be directly accessible via the connection.

SVR Srinivas, the Metropolitan Commissioner of the Mumbai Metropolitan Region Development Authority \(MMRDA\), recently reviewed the progress of the MTHL packages 1, 2, and 3 with numerous stakeholders and gave them instructions to make sure that the construction of the Sewri interchange and the erection of the orthotropic steel deck proceed as planned.
