

The new terminal building at the Pune airport is set to open this year, according to authorities.

“More than 65% of work on the building, which is currently under construction, is done. Our focus is on completing the building by the end of the year. While plans also involve modifications on the city side of the airport, we have to focus on the new terminal building for now,” the official said.

The structure was earlier scheduled to be commissioned in August of next year. However, airport authorities later stated that development had been expedited and that the facility should be operational by January of next year.
