

Real estate company Smartworld Developers Pvt Ltd announced a partnership with Schneider Electric to include home automation into new projects.

A Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between the two businesses has been inked to further 360-degree home automation in future projects.

Through this collaboration, Smartworld Developers said it would “build positive impact homes with lower waste and healthier interiors by incorporating smart product lines from Schneider Electric, which includes Wiser Smart Homes, Modular Switches, etc.”

“A smart home ecosystem is the future. With over 4,000 homes already under construction and another 15,000 homes to be added in the next two years, at Smartworld one of our key differentiators is our approach towards development of homes that are SMART,”

VivekSinghal, CEO of Smartworld Developers, said.

Schneider Electric would complement the supply and service of products and solutions with a quarterly training and upskilling programme for the staff of Smartworld Developers.
