

Thejo Engineering Ltd, an engineering solution provider to the core sector, has announced a 70 crore expansion plan.

“At a cost of 45 crore, we expanded our existing manufacturing facility in Chennai, increasing our annual production capacity of moulded products from 2,400 tonnes to 3,600 tonnes,” said M.D. Ravikanth, CFO, in an interview.

Steel, mining, power, and ports are among the industries served by Thejo. The expanded facility in Ponneri will manufacture rubber screens, mill liners, diaphragms, shell lifter bars, pinch valves, splicing kits, and rubber sheets.

“Trial runs are on and commercial production will commence soon. The expansion has been done to take Thejo to the next phase of growth,” he said.

Thejo group has five facilities in Chennai, two in Australia, one in Saudi Arabia and warehouses in Chile and Brazil.
