

Virtuoso Optoelectronics Limited (VOEPL), an up-and-coming maker of consumer goods and mass-produced EMS (Electronics Manufacturing Services), announced the opening of its fourth manufacturing site in Nashik, Maharashtra.

The state-of-the-art facility will assist the company fulfil the growing inhouse demand for plastic components and cross flow fans (CFF), while also enhancing its production capabilities and customer service. This manufacturing facility will also mark a significant turning point for VOEPL's backward integration strategy.

The roughly 20,000 square foot new facility is furnished with cutting-edge machinery that will allow VOEPL to manufacture Cross Flow Fans (CFF) and a variety of plastic components to satisfy the unique requirements of its clients.
